Norwich, Tuesday, Nov. 14, 1916.

THE WEATHER. The winds along the North Atlantic coast will be fresh and strong east, shifting to north; middle Atlantic fresh, shifting becoming northwest.

Conditions. The western cold wave is advancing astward and has now overspread the Mississippi valley.

There have been snows within the last 24 hours in northern New England and local rains in the middle At-land and local rains in the middle At-lantic states.

The indications are that in the New England states there will be rain or snow Tuesday and probably fair and colder weather on Wednesday.

In the Middle Atlantic states rain and colder weather Tuesday will be followed by fair and much colder weather on Wednesday with a cold wave.

Northern New England: Snow on uesday; Wednesday probably fair and colder.

Southern New England: Rain, possibly turning to snow Tuesday; colder Tuesday; Wednesday probably fair and colder.

Eastern New York: Rain on coast and rain or snow in interior Tuesday; colder in south Tuesday; Wednesday probably fair and colder.

The exploding of a hall lamp in the house occupied by J. H. Toomey at the corner of North Main and Fourth streets Monday evening caused an alarm to be rung in from box 27 located on the Greeneville fire station. The auto pumper from the Central station and the Greeneville Hook and Ladder company answered the call and extinguished the blaze. Small damage was done, two holes being burned in the carpet of the hallway.
